Dear ____________,

I am hosting a conversation as part of A Community Table on April 10th and am inviting you to join me and others from [time] at [location].

A Community Table is a part of the University of Denver (DU) Grand Challenges initiative. DU Grand Challenges seeks to bring the university community and community change-makers together to work collaboratively to support thriving communities. This year, DU is focused on generating ideas to increase economic opportunities in our communities that will guide collaborative work in the years ahead.

A Community Table involves bringing 8-12 people together to generate ideas and shared aspirations for increasing economic opportunities in our communities. This may include expanding education access, improving infrastructure, fulfilling employment rights, exploring workplace equity and more. We have deliberately taken on complex, urgent and persistent challenges. But together, we have the opportunity to tackle them.

Would you join me to be part of the conversation on April 10 at [time], [location]? I am excited to host this conversation because [information here about why the host is participating].

Please let me know if you will attend.

Best regards,
